ME

Grandma, I can't stop thinking about our weekends together. My mom would drop me off at your house on a Friday evening and we would watch TGIF series and you would fix me a bowl of ice cream, we would play tic tac toe and hang man until it was time for me to take a bath and go to bed. Saturday morning we'd get up early and you would make breakfast and after we ate, we got ready to catch the bus to the Raleigh Springs Mall and we would have fun looking around, shopping, eating a Hot Sam's extra long corn dog dipped in cheese and on Sunday you wake me up early to get ready to attend Friendship Baptist Church that seem to last all day lol. My fondest memory is when you'd make me this tasty concoction of tea, lemon, peppermint and honey whenever I would get sick. My mom tried to make it once for me when I was sick and I remember telling her this doesn't taste like my lil mama's. She tried though, but it just wasn't the same. To this day, I still talk that and your bologna sandwiches that you would pack with us for lunch on some of our Saturday adventures. I spent a lot of weekends at my lil mama and big mama house as a child. I love our talks and that fact that she didn't sugarcoat things, and would tell me grown up stuff and I appreciate that. I love you grandma and I'm so grateful for the good memories and having the opportunity to be around someone with so much wisdom. I will always cherish the times we shared. I'm happy you're in a much better place. Rest Peacefully, Melanie and Melrose!

“ Family of Rosie Lee Langford I love 💕 each of you and will miss her. We have been friends from childhood to now We went to school together, baptized together, reared our children together, and stayed very close until Robert moved her to Florida to care for her. We know she is resting in peace now 🌸 Prayerfully 🙏 Rose Mary Hardy
